STRATEGY

Abraham Lincoln once said "Be sure you put your feet in the right place, then stand firm."

Step 1: Important Decisions

1. What is required for success?

2. When to start the preparation?

Start preparation atleast 1 year prior to the exam.

If you are going to prepare immediately after graduation, then don't waste time, start immediately after your final exam.

If you are going to study while working, start preparation in June/July. Don't delay to start, otherwise you will experience time crunch later.

If you are preparing during graduation, generalized plan cannot be suggested, so discuss personally with us to evolve an individual plan.

3. How to start preparation?

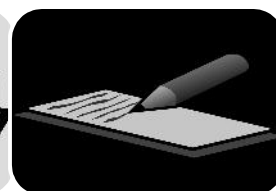

Analysis of previous year question papers

Understanding of Syllabus

Reading of basic study material

Start writing some demo answers

4. How to select the optional subject?

Rather than selecting an optional without having knowledge of other subjects or without knowing your own writing and presentation styles and thinking patterns, it is better to delay this decision. Every subject has its own demand (i.e. thinking pattern, writing style, presentation techniques etc.). Your personality should suit to it.

While preparing for GS Mains, you will be also preparing for History, Geography, Anthropology, Public Administration, Political Science, Sociology etc. It will help you in deciding your interest in a particular optional subject properly. It will prove more informed and rational decision afterwards.

Following are some basic criteria:

Interest and understanding in the subject about which you will come to know when you study for GS Mains

Analysis of the syllabus and previous years' question papers of the shortlisted subjects

Writing style and presentation techniques suitable for that particular optional (about which you will know once you start writing for GS and essay)

Thinking Pattern expected for a particular optional (you will come to know about yours after you start preparing for GS.)

Availability of study material

Availability of Guidance

Weightage of Optional in GS

Graduation background

Apart from this, some give importance to the length of the syllabus.... Which is an unfound criterion

5. How to manage other examinations like MPSC (state services exam) along with UPSC?

At the beginning, it is better to concentrate on UPSC alone as it will cover major portion of other similar exams. You can dedicatedly prepare for them for some time prior to exam dates depending upon time table. (unfortunately this keep changing every year)

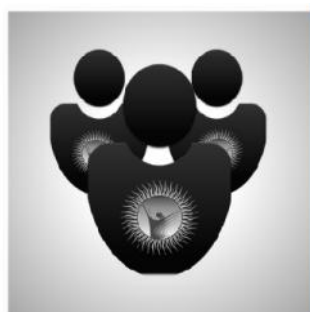

6. Can I prepare while working or pursuing graduation?

Yes you can.... You need to be mentally very strong and need to manage your time optimally for the whole year to manage everything. We conduct weekend batches for these students. We are proud to share that we have many selections from this batch.... Gaurav Singh Sogarwal (IAS, AIR 46), Rajat Bansal (IPS), Anshu Varma (IRAS), Devraju Shiva (IAS), etc.
